

| | |
|---|----|
| Day-to-Day Operations | 23 |
| 24. Open your database and leave it open | 23 |
| 25. Create and regularly execute data integrity reports | 23 |
| 26. Test new features of your database | 24 |
| 27. Create a “test plan” | 25 |
| 28. Eliminate redundant processes | 26 |
| 29. Track communication preferences | 27 |
| 30. Spot check your data. | 27 |
| 31. Back up your data! | 28 |
| 32. Learn how to query your database | 29 |
| 33. Write your own standard reports | 29 |
| 34. Become a data analyst | 29 |
| 35. Institute an audit log in your AMS | 30 |
| 36. Search names on partial spelling, not complete spelling | 30 |
| Training | 33 |
| 37. Formalize training | 33 |
| 38. “Train” senior management | 34 |
| 39. Pretest the software | 35 |
| 40. Know your audience | 35 |
| 41. Have practice examples ready | 36 |
| 42. Use your organization’s data and database | 36 |
| 43. Make training hands-on | 36 |
| 44. Perform post-training assessments | 36 |
| Data Collection | 39 |
| 45. Collect data everywhere | 39 |
| 46. Gather the appropriate amount of contact information | 40 |
| 47. Don’t try to gather all data at once | 40 |
| 48. Create campaigns to gather additional information | 41 |
| 49. Increase the value of communications by leveraging your data | 41 |
| 50. Update your data periodically | 42 |
| 51. Take care when collecting data online. | 42 |
| 52. Don’t allow your members and customers to change their names online | 43 |
| Conclusion | 45 |
| About the Author | 47 |